

PREM ISAAC

Speaker Bio

Prem Isaac is a Christian apologist who has been a software developer for the past 22 years. He was born in India but grew up across India, Nigeria, and the United States. He was raised in a Christian background but became an evolutionist and an agnostic in his pre-teen years when his interest in science led him to ask questions that his church could not answer. In 1989, Prem came to Christ in New York City and got involved with street evangelism and young adult discipleship. Since 1998, Prem has taught New Testament and Apologetics at churches and colleges, across the United States. In 2007, Prem was the plenary speaker for the 'Jesus Week' kickoff at Columbia University, and in 2011 co-taught Systematic Theology at his church with his professor, the noted Christian apologist Dr. Norman Geisler. Additionally, he has addressed members of the faculty of the Philosophy Department at Potchefstroom University in South Africa, and has also taught in India, Norway, and Qatar. Prem holds an undergraduate degree with a double major in Physics and Computer Science, and an M.A. in Philosophy from Southern Evangelical Seminary. He attends Calvary Church in Charlotte, NC, where he has taught Adult classes and leads an Adult Life Group focused on Apologetics & New Testament. He also served as the International Director for Ratio Christi, a global movement that equips university students and faculty to give historical, philosophical, and scientific reasons for following Jesus Christ. He resides in Charlotte with his wife Annie, and two children.
